

Abstract of the Disclosure

The invention relates to novel materials based on coated metal particles for use as active positive-electrode material in electrochemical cells.